

Brian Morris

Video storytelling

Production schedule: UNFORTUNATE

Preproduction has begun with the treatment being written and a start on the script and storyboards. There will be one actor, Vanessa Slicker, as well as myself in a very small part as the delivery person. I did a quick run through with Vanessa on what the story is about and how I want her to play the part.

Locations for shooting:

Vanessa's house

Crescent Lake Park

Inside a car (when leaving the park)

Shooting will most likely begin tomorrow (July 25th) and continue through the weekend. The shooting and any additional sound recording will wrap by Sunday, July 31st. I'm going to experiment with mics and without to see what works best. I may use a combination of both.

Tentative shooting schedule:

Tonight: Finish script and story boards

Tuesday, July 25th: Shoot night scene at park

Wednesday, July 26th: Begin uploading and preliminary editing of footage thus far

Thursday, July 27th: Record most additional sounds and effects, wake up scene, and opening montage

July 28th- July 31st: Record scenes in the house and finish any other sounds

At this point (Monday, August 1st), I will begin editing the movie and putting it all together. I should be able to wrap up the project and upload it to my blog by Monday, August 7th. I plan on adding movie music and sound effects from iMovie to better capture the effect or mood I want to achieve in the film.